The Correct Spelling and Great Meanings of Kindness

(Original)

Mihai Darius O. Andronescu

(Age 9, Romania)

Liceul "Mathias Hammer" Anina, Jud. Caras-Severin

I am just a child. But my heart is too big to help my classmates at school in reading stories for them to see the importance of learning the English Language. My teacher in English Language told me that I am the best pupil in her class. I am only in Grade II but my understanding in foreign language is quite amazing. I can even explain the meaning of some difficult words in English. I think my learning which started from home up to school is like kindness to one's education.

K for me is kindness itself. I have my loving hours to respect my parent, my grandparent, my relatives, my sibling, my teachers, my classmates and my friends. I love them all.

I for me is intelligence. I would like to thank my parent in upbringing me as a smart kid as I am. The school and my teachers are also a part of my becoming of being a respectful and kind learner.

N for me is notions. Notions or ideas that will make myself upright and helping my classmates in learning more and even in my own little way, I continue helping them with kindness.

D for me is determination. Being determined in everything is my own strength: to study, to love my family and everybody, to respect all the living things in our planet and to have faith in God.

N for me is neatness. Clean surroundings will make our world a better place to live in. Goodness and neatness are almost the same in everything we do and plus this kindness of ours is true.

E for me is environment. We are all part of it and we must love our environment with clean air, friendly community, healthy place and kind-hearted people.

S for me is studying. Being young, my mind teaches me to be smart in everything because I have my own study habits at home and school, of course with kindness in my normal time.

S for me is solution. I know that our world is full of problems. The best solution for these problems is to share or resolve them with random acts of kindness. From simple to multiple acts of Kindness, Our Society and even Our Planet will have the World Peace!
