(Original)

Rajashree Choudhury

(Age 14, India)

The best way to predict the future is to create it, and the idea of bringing reforms in society through education is truly incredible. The thought aroused because people have started feeling the paramount need is to bring change to uplift our world from miseries and abolish ignorance for in it lies the core of all evil and education has the power to abandon this evil. It is the key to all the diverse challenges the world is facing today.

The present educational system has not proven to be completely reliable of building the next generation capable enough that they can resolve all the complex problems that have aroused over the years or will arise in near future. Education has become an abstruse business where the teachers teach for money and students learn to make money in future, the whole walkover goes on with money and those who do not do well in studies either commit or go off the track and later become social evils but we must not forget that it was we who made them so.

If our present system of education would have been so effective then our world would not have been so much disturbed. What is the use of education when we turn a deaf ear to the cries of our own brothers and sisters who are hungry suffering with poverty, who are being killed by the terrorist. All these maladies afflicting our society do not seem to affect us.

Where does our moral, Values vanish when we do not have the courage to fight the evil? How long can this world be dominated by the deadly terrorists, how long are we going to bear everything silently?

The world ardently needs change. Education can be the tool to do it, but we need to follow a different pattern of learning, we have to train ourselves and introspect who we are. We need to know that we are not humans but souls, we are not the body that we can perceive with our eyes but we are the peace loving, powerful soul who is immortal, what we consider ourselves is just the body inherited by our souls, we need to shift from the world of body consciousness to soul consciousness.

The Almighty gave us this body as a medium to educate, spiritually enlighten and empower ourselves. These are not just mere philosophy but the universal truth, which have been mentioned in many ancient manuscripts of the world. India my country is blessed because it had been the birth place of many powerful souls who used their powers to free people from the curse of the evil, made dead people alive, that which even our science has not been able to do till date.

If we want to make peace we have to spiritually educate people all over the world. Our basic studies are definitely necessary but we need to bring change if we want to see reforms in future and a better peaceful society where the people live in harmony with nature.

Meditation along with learning should be taught and practiced. Meditation is the way through which we can connect to the Supreme Power, the creator of the earth the entire amazing universe. Meditation makes us peaceful, improves our memory and makes us a loving personality. The stands in need of peace at this juncture and we need to bring people to the reality from the realm they have been living in. We have to make a perfect blend of our ancient knowledge and present technology to help create a better planet.
